

Anchor is excited to announce a fresh new look being rolled out in time for Christmas this year. At the heart of the new branding is an assurance and promise that Anchor engineers are committed to bringing our customer's building services to life. The new imagery captures the enthusiasm and energy of our work, it communicates in a visual way how the buildings we work in are brought to life by the expertise of our multi skilled engineers. Ian Paxton (MD) says, "The new Anchor branding is an important step forward for us, it truly embodies our past heritage whilst looking to the future in a contemporary way."
